Pastor's Corner

"A problem not worth praying about is a problem not worth worrying about."

How many times have you lost sleep over some matter or another? Maybe it was something that, at the time, seemed huge or profound. Maybe it was something that, at the time, just seemed nettling or bothersome. Either way, how many times has your peace and rest been sacrificed in the face of some sort of trouble?

If you are "typical", at least occasionally some sort of trouble has intruded upon your sleep. It happens. Our minds sometimes have trouble "letting go" of the day's labors and cares. In fact, if modern sociologists are to be believed, we may be having a harder time (literally) "unplugging" ourselves since we are ever-more connected to news and events through our text-messaging, social-networking sites, and 24-hour news cycles. It may be that we are, quite literally, worrying ourselves to death.

Believe it or not, the point of this article is not to dabble in the science of sleep or sleep disorders. Those things belong to other disciplines. Rather, the point of my observations is to highlight the increasing amount of stress that we put ourselves under and to ponder why there is not a corresponding level of prayer. I suspect that, had I phrased the question like this: "How many times, when confronted with a problem, do you first PRAY?" the answer would be substantially less than if I had asked, "How many times you have ever lost sleep over some problem or another?"

It may seem somewhat simplistic or naïve to say, "A problem not worth praying about, is a problem not worth worrying about." but stop and consider it for a moment. Nowhere in the Scriptures are we commanded by God "to worry" but we are commanded and invited many times by God to pray. The Second Commandment reads "You shall not make wrongful use of the name of the Lord, your God."

The unspoken question hangs in the air: "What then is the right use of the name of the Lord, our God?" Luther explains the Second Commandment like this: We are to fear and love God so that we do not curse, swear, practice magic, lie, or deceive using Gods' name, but instead use that name in every time of need to call on, pray to, praise, and give thanks to God." In other words, the rightful use of the name of the Lord our God is in prayer. We are commanded in the Second Commandment to pray. So why is it, that we feel our worry (which is not commanded of us) is somehow worthier of our time, but our prayer (which is commanded of us) is not?

The first and primary Christian response to any problem is prayer; to stop everything and call upon God's holy name and seek God's guidance and help. Worrying takes no special faith. Praying, on the other hand, requires faith. Many good and fine people with no faith may identify a problem and be concerned with it, but it takes a Christian to identify a problem and pray about it. If our rule of prayer is that "We won't bother God" with our worries, then what will be our rule of belief or faith be? In other words, just how strongly can you believe in God's help if your first response is not to ask for it?

On the other hand, we are often driven into God's mercy by the winds and storms that buffet our small boats. When the apostles woke Jesus, who was sleeping in the stern of the boat, he calmed the winds and the waves. When we dare to call out to Jesus because we are being overwhelmed by the storms and waves of our troubles, we find out that we have not been driven upon the rocks, but into the arms of his mercy. Prayer is heard, prayer is answered, even where we sometimes fail to see it right away. Calling out to God "in every time of need" is not only a commandment, but it is how God reveals his love for us, by calming the winds and the waves.

Pope John Paul II was once asked, in the midst of the sexual abuse scandal in the Roman Catholic Church, how he was sleeping. "Fine, fine," he answered the reporter. "How can you find rest in such a troubled time?" the stunned reporter asked. "I have a crucifix above my bed," the pope explained. "I say my prayers every night, I look up at Jesus and I tell him, 'It is your Church, you take care of it now' and I sleep soundly." Prayer is part of our admission that "God is God and we are not." It is allowing God to do what only God can do; still the wind and the waves and to save us. And having done so, we may rest in peace.

A Message from Mark Poffenberger...

YTD Budgeted $168,383

YTD Offerings $175,067

We have made budget for 2016 with a surplus of $6,684.96!! The Finance Committee is very excited about our finish to 2016 and we thank the congregation for their support.

Just a reminder that our yearly budget increases to $188,993.00 in 2017 which works out to approximately a 12% increase and if everyone could keep that in mind when making your offerings this year. Thank you again!!

Read the Bible in a Year

Have you ever wanted to read the entire Bible but didn't know where to begin or, after a short time, found yourself giving up? A new class will start in early January where you can read the Bible in a year. There will be a structured reading list which will require 20 to 30 minutes of daily reading. Then we will meet as a group once a week to discuss some of the readings from the prior week. It is hoped that by being part of a group, you will feel a commitment to stick with your reading plan. The weekly meeting will be during the evening. The day will be decided by the group, but we will lean toward Wednesdays. If you have an interest in this study, please see Gene Walkley, or email him at gwalkley@comcast.net.

Starting in January, we will offer a fifth class for adults.

This class will not concentrate on Scripture as our other adult classes do, but like the other classes, it will help people discover a deeper understanding of themselves and provide some tools to enhance and support their walk as disciples of Christ. This class will make use of the enneagram, a spiritual / psychological theory that helps people become familiar with their capital sin and their corresponding spiritual strength.

The class will be taught by Rev. Roy Oswald, a Lutheran pastor who is a member of Trinity. Roy has enjoyed teaching adults here in the past and has offered to do so again. For its first meeting, the class will meet in the Front Room of the parsonage and then decide whether to change location based on size of the class.

Do you want to schedule the social room or other space at Trinity for a church-related or family activity or an event for an organization to which you belong? To schedule an event, contact the church office, Steve Jamison or Pastor Ron. The master event calendar is kept electronically through Google calendar. Before you contact the office, you may view the Google calendar at www.trinitylutheranboonsboro.org.

Click "home" at the top of the page to make certain you are on the home page then scroll to the bottom of the page and click on "Calendar - See What's Happening at Trinity". This takes you to the Google calendar and you will be able to scroll through the entire year to find available dates.
